Dossett named commissioner

by Dan Barber

Hancock supervisors Monday named B.L. Dossett to serve on a three member jury commission, charged with compiling future juror lists, after a ten minute controversy threatened to disrupt any nominations being accepted. Dossett's name was submitted by beat five supervisor Jimmy Travirca.

Controversy over the board appointment erupted after beat one supervisor Jerry Ladner accused the rest of the board of trying to push through Travirca's nomination without any discussion on his own choice for the position, Hilton Shaw.

Ladner's claim that he had submitted Shaw's name at the board's last meeting of Nov. 18 was disputed by the other supervisors, board attorney Sam Favre and chancery court clerk John Rutherford.

Ladner and other board members then alternately engaged in a shouting match over who was telling the "truth".

The matter was resolved after board president Dolph Kellar called for a vote on Travirca's motion to appoint Dossett, that had been seconded earlier by beat four supervisor Bully Zengarling. The motion passed unanimously with Ladner joining in the "aye" vote.

Two other jury commissioners will be appointed, one from each court, by Circuit Court Judge Leslie B. Grant, and Chancery Court Judge William Hewes.

In other business the board accepted amendments to its contract agreement with the Borg-Warner Corporation which conveys unto Borg-Warner right-of-way to road, rail, sewage and water on property the corporation has shown interest in. In exchange Borg-Warner agrees to pay replacement costs to the county of $125,000.

In addition the county agreed to assure the prospective purchaser that canals and waterways would be maintained to their original design depth and to exchange with Borg-Warner 15 acres presently located in a road way for a like amount of land agreed upon between parties.

All amendments are subject to approval by the federal Economic Development administration.

In another matter, Port and Harbor Commission director Wilson Webre reported to the board that the commission was ready to implement a plan to relieve flooding of property owned by Mrs. Victor Thian adjacent to the Port Bienville Industrial Park as soon as both parties reached final agreement.

Webre said that action was being delayed presently because of a point of difference with Mrs. Thian over future liability of drainage and maintenance. Mrs. Thian, Webre told supervisors, is asking the commission to assume liability for the ditch drainage and to assume periodic maintenance.

Webre said the commission's plan was workable, but the commission was not ready to assume any liability in writing or to guarantee any periodic maintenance.

A resolution supporting the E. I. Dupont Company and its announced interest in locating a plant in West Harrison county was passed unanimously. The motion was made by beat three supervisor Oscar Peterson and seconded by Jerry Ladner.

"We're tired of these outside people wanting a summer home who don't care if our people have a job or not," Ladner said of those who are opposing the plant location for environmental reasons.

"As long as they protect our environment, I'm all for them."

Another motion to pay one-third of the proposed cost of a three day demonstration of bus service was also passed. It only remains now for the two cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland to pass a like resolution for the same pro-rata share. The demonstration period is being offered by the Mississippi Coast Transit Authority for $915.

In other action the board --

--agreed to turn over to the city of Bay St. Louis easement rights to its public pier at the foot of Dunbar Ave. so that the city could obtain liability insurance for the pier.

--Passed a resolution increasing a donation to the Hancock North Central basketball team by $800, making a total of $1,000, to enable the team to attend a Jaycee tournament in Houston, Texas in December.

Court looms in school battle

by Adoree Shortle
Echo News Editor

Bay St. Louis and Waveland city officials may be facing each other across a court room rather than a council table in the coming weeks if the Waveland city council acts on a Nov. 20 threat to take legal action against Bay St. Louis.

A motion, passed at the last Waveland council meeting, authorized the city attorney to investigate legal steps necessary to issue a temporary court restraining order against the city of Bay St. Louis for illegal taxation practices.

The decision is another development in a power battle between the two cities over the municipal separate school district, which is comprised of students from both cities and their outside, or annexed, territories. The school district is funded in part by tax levies on both cities but which are controlled only by Bay St. Louis.

The controversy which has evolved into a subtle but full scale war, began early this year when Waveland Mayor John Longo, speaking for his council, objected to what he termed "an excessively high" budget for the school system.

Bay St. Louis accepted the budget, submitted for the 1974-75 school year, and, citing insufficient funds to support the budget, doubled district tax assessments.

Waveland countered that raising taxes was not necessary and called for a more judicious and controlled use of existing funds.

Further contentions erupted when the school board, after trimming $30,300 worth of items out of the original budget, asked the Bay council to ratify a $30,300 short term loan to purchase the same items.

Sparked largely by Waveland tax payers, but widely circulated in both cities, a petition calling for a public vote on the loan was rejected by the Bay. An insufficient number of qualified signatures on the petition was the reason given by Bay councilman Lucien Kidd, who purged the petition.

In justifying the outcome, Kidd said the total of names remaining on the petition was less than the required 20 percent of the total 7,206 registered voters in the school district.

In reviewing voter figures for Waveland and the outside boxes, Longo now maintains that a total of those figures amount to 51 percent of the total voter complement.

Therefore, Longo contends, under state statutes Bay St. Louis is operating illegally as the controlling agent in administration and taxation of the school district. A decision from a member of the state attorney general's

IN THE BEGINNING--The First Thanksgiving, an early 20th Century oil painting by Jennie A. Browncombe, shows our Pilgrim forefathers joining with the Indians to give thanks for their harvest. The presiding elder is William Brewster, who directed the spiritual life of the colony in its early years when it had no pastor.

A Thank You note

In the beginning God created the world with its mountains and wastelands and forests and seas.

And into this world He placed living creatures of every kind. The birds, the fish, the beasts -- he made them all. And God saw that it was good.

And then God brought forth into this paradise man and woman to enjoy what He had created.

And now man lowers his head not only in thanksgiving but also in humility, because God saw to it that everything was good.

Many times we have found it easy to overlook these blessings as we rush about in the mad fury of daily living. But on this day we pause and think of our good fortune.

Things both seen and unseen, we are thankful for.

For the beauty of the world around us.

For the happiness of being with our loved ones.

And for the joy of knowing that we as a nation are at peace with every other nation.

Now we see what God saw, and it is true; it is all so very good. Thank you.

Georgia refuses DuPont plant

by Adoree Shortle
Echo News Editor

An attorney living in Bay St. Louis said Monday night that he had documented evidence that the state of Georgia turned down a DuPont Co. request to build the same plant as that proposed for a DeLisle site before the company's decision to locate on the Gulf Coast.

George Riess, speaking before a meeting of the Gulf Coast Fishermen's Assn., told the group that an exchange of correspondence between Du Pont officials and a Georgia regulatory agency director indicated that Mississippi was an alternative location for a titanium dioxide plant after the company was refused admission by the state of Georgia.

Riess, who moved to the Bay from New Orleans a little more than a year ago to escape what he termed "metropolitan industrial pollution", explained that he does not have a blanket objection to the development of industry in the area, nor does he object to the specific Du Pont plant.

His concern, which is shared by the group of more than 80 area residents which he says he represents, is primarily with the method of waste disposal to be employed at the plant and with the lack of "responsibility on the part of this state (Mississippi) in not investigating the company's method of operation".

Other states reflect "a certain economic responsibility in having chemical plants such as Georgia which has several", Riess said, "but in excluding those which would threaten the ecological balance they show even more responsibility."

Riess referred to Du Pont's statement that poisonous wastes would be disposed of by deep well injection below the existing water well levels, as well as some 2,000 gallons of waste per minute which would be poured into the Bay of St. Louis.

The latter, Riess said, would be at temperatures 16 degrees to 42 degrees higher than that of Bay waters which Tulane University marine biologists told him would have "a devastating effect on marine life".

Riess' earlier efforts to obtain specific information on the effluent from the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory in Ocean Springs was refused as being "confidential", but Monday he was given a breakdown of the chemical content, showing it to be primarily sodium chloride.

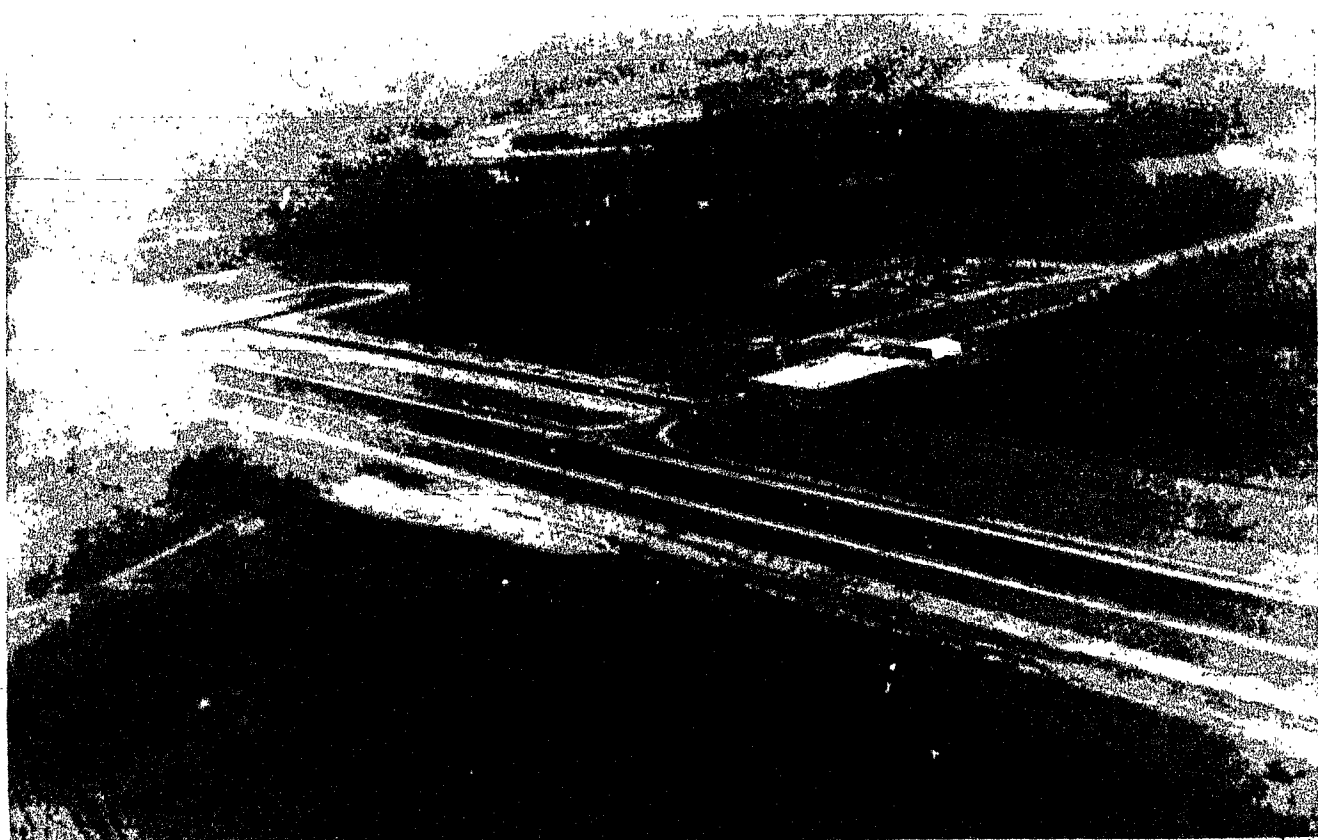

In refusing the plant for Brunswick two years ago, Georgia officials based the main objection on the deep well injection system, but suggested to Du Pont in correspondence that the company explore other more satisfactory methods of ground disposal such as those used by plants now operating in Georgia.

Riess has a copy of a letter from a chemical company to Du Pont, written in 1973 offering an acceptable waste disposal system.

However, Riess said when he asked Du Pont officials speaking before public meetings on the Coast if the company would use another waste

Airport completion projected for early 1975

AERIAL VIEW of Stennis International Airport located at Bay St. Louis. The 8,500-foot runway is scheduled for completion next Jan 15 and will feature a design strength in excess of 280,000 lbs., matched locally only by New Orleans International.

Over 122,000 tons of asphalt have been used in the construction. The runway will also have a special high intensity runway lighting system. The present program of runway construction was started in the Spring of 1974.

Air freight service to Hancock County will become a reality in January, according to E. Durand Bailey, manager of Global Associates, operators of the Stennis International Airport located in Hancock County.

In a joint statement Friday, Hancock County Port and Harbor director Wilson Webre and Bailey announced that the completion of all base asphalt work on the new International Airport would be accomplished by Jan. 15, 1975. The new runway, when completed, will be 8,500 feet long with a cargo ramp and taxiway, all with a design strength in excess of 280,000 lbs., necessary to accommodate the heavy jet cargo aircraft flying today.

Designed to fill the air freight service gap between New Orleans and Gulfport, Miss., Bailey said that the airport would provide the needed general aviation services required for industrial growth as well as supplement existing transportation facilities.

Stennis International has the unique advantage of being less than one hour from the heart of New Orleans via Interstate 10 and less than 40 minutes to the Gulfport-Biloxi centers. It is estimated that the airport will serve over a million and a half population in the Mississippi Gulf Coast and New Orleans area.

Bailey pointed out the design advantages of the Stennis airport over its nearest competitors, in addition, will make it more suitable for much of the heavier air cargo service flying today.

Bailey said that the Gulfport airport had one 9,000 foot runway, slightly longer than Stennis, but lacked the strength stress that Stennis has.

Bailey said that it was also in the long range planning to extend the runway to a maximum of 10,000 feet.

The present program of runway construction is Phase II of the overall airport master plan. Phase II was started in the Spring of 1974. Total cost of the project is $2.5 million with the aviation tax funds of the FAA Airport Development Aid Program paying 75 percent of the project cost and the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission paying the remaining 25 percent.

Global Associates has operated and managed the airport for the Port and Harbor Commission since July 1974.

Webre stated Friday that the Commission was working toward a long range contract with Global to continue management of the airport and related industrial development.

The Commission owns approximately 600 acres of land at the airport and envisions the growth of an industrial park to the east of the airport. The commission has already had inquiries from industry about site locations at the park, including the Walle Corporation of New Orleans.

Global announced Friday that it had also made arrangements for Gulf Coast Aircraft Sales, Pascagoula, to operate a flight school, provide air charter service and supply aircraft maintenance.

Global is presently the Institutional Services Contractor for NASA at National Space Technology Laboratories and has been associated with aviation for many years.

Phase III of the airport development will involve installation of sewage and water, runway improvements and construction of building for storage.

Bailey said that freight moving through Stennis would include a variety of products such as frozen foods, cattle, clothing, tobacco, and household goods.

Stennis is also expected to act as a reliever airport for New Orleans International, which is now becoming congested both in ground and air space.

Wayne Alliston: Ends 33 years of 'very pleasant work'

by Dan Barber

The desk which normally was piled high with papers, was unusually clean. Books and personal papers had been neatly stacked in a small corner and the man behind the desk was sprawled back in his leather office chair with a big fat cigar in his mouth.

The man, whose voice was almost destroyed by cancer, was rasping a few final words to the employees that were sharing his last work day.

It was retirement day. And Wayne Alliston, whose name had become synonymous with the Hancock County Health Department, was enjoying every moment of it.

"I started as a sanitarian in 1942 and I guess I'm still a sanitarian at heart," he said luskily.

"Now," he said, "I'm ready to retire while I still feel like doing things." I've got a brother out in Fort Worth, Texas who wants me to come out and visit him and I've got five grandchildren that I want to get to know better."

"My last big project was to get a building large enough to accommodate all of our services," he said.

The building we were sitting in is a testament to the fact that health services in the county have grown continually under Alliston.

"When I came to Bay St. Louis 33 years ago," Alliston said, "the health department was located in the old coal bin in the basement of the Bay St. Louis City Hall. There was one doctor, one nurse and myself."

"Then Health Center now employs nine regular employees, six related field workers, has a regional medical director, and a maternal and child health clinic once a week under Dr. Martha Hayes. All services are free.

In addition plans have just been approved for a $28,000 addition to the health center to be built from revenue sharing funds.

"I guess I know practically everybody in the county. The people of Hancock county have been awfully good to me.

This is home."

Alliston was born in Fort Worth, Texas. But his father, a Baptist minister, often moved the family around.

"We lived in Water Valley, Miss., then in Columbia, and finally ended up in Jackson," Alliston said. "I usually just say I'm from Jackson."

A 1933 graduate of Mississippi State College, Alliston was assigned to Hancock County by the State Board of Health in Jackson. Dr. C. M. Ship was resident health officer in Bay St. Louis at the time.

"Actually I've been tending to administration about 20 years while still a sanitarian," Alliston has been administrative assistant since 1966.

The present health services building was constructed in 1960.

"We thought we were fixed for 25 years," Alliston said. "The services have grown so much that we just can't sandwich everything in anymore in the room we've got."

Among health services offered by the Hancock Health Center are 1) immunizations 2) maternity care 3) crippled children service 4) chest x-rays 5) blood tests 6) family planning clinic 7) medical screening 8) home health services 9) physical therapy 10) speech therapy for medicare patients and 11) venereal disease clinic as well as inspections conducted by the sanitation department of school cafeterias, dairies, lunchrooms, and restaurants.

Alliston says he believes the Hancock County Health Department ranks in the top five centers in the state.

"We've got excellent personnel here. We're beginning to get our subdivisions under control. Of course we had a recent outbreak of food poisoning at the local high school, but it's the first one we've had in 33 years. We're proud of our cafeteria program in the schools. We're starting closer supervision and conducting inspections four-five times a year."

November 19 may have been Wayne Alliston's last day at work, but his easy to get the feeling that his influence will be felt at the Hancock Health Center for a lot of years to come.

"It's been 33 years of very pleasant work. I expect to stay here in Bay St. Louis a good many more years. I love it down here."

The Allistons have three children. Wayne Jr. who resides in Ocean Springs; Woody, who lives in Bay St. Louis; and Mrs. Catherine Cox of Manhattan Beach, Calif.

WAYNE ALLISTON — reflects on 33 years as Hancock County health officer.

Rayborn will address Civitans

Talmadge "Tally" Rayborn, executive director, Pearl River County Development Association, will be the principal speaker Monday 7:30 p.m. at the Long Beach Civitan Club meeting.

Rayborn, a native Mississippian who has won the "National Salesman of the Year" award, will speak on "The art of selling good citizenship" to your community.

Rayborn is a graduate of Mississippi State University and has been a consultant on school supply and equipment throughout the state. He also adjusted insurance for school damage on the Gulf Coast following Hurricane Camille. Rayborn is a member of the North East Mississippi Industrial Council and the Hancock Chamber of Commerce and is now serving as interim pastor for the First Baptist Church of Pass Christian.

Ray Canada, president, Long Beach Civitan Club, urges all Civitans to come up and to "bring their wives and guests to hear this outstanding speaker."

T. D. Lee, past president, will introduce the speaker.

The public is invited to attend.

system he was told that there were no others.

He also was told when he asked why the company has bought 2,200 acres of land for a plant that requires considerably less for construction, that the extra land was "to develop deer feeding stations" and would be kept for that purpose. That answer, Riess said, was an insult to his intelligence.

Residents in opposition to the plant proposals are disappointed that there has been almost no investigation from the state of Mississippi in the matter, and that the state Air and Water Pollution Control Commission is apparently going to approve the operation without any regulatory stipulations.

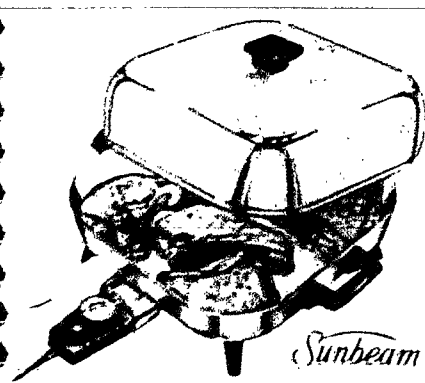

The state and the general public seem to have been lulled by the magic work 'jobs' Riess said, "at the sacrifice of responsible consideration of maintaining a vital balance between economic development and survival. If the state won't act, then the people will have to."

He is as much in favor of increased jobs as anyone, Riess said, as he would like

The payoff?

No, Long Beach alderman Jimmy Moran hands Mayor Sam Maxwell his registration card for the 10-mile hike for the Crippled Children Center in Kiln. LB Police Chief Harry Kaletsch apparently wants nothing to do with the whole affair as he looks the other way. A report from Foundation president Dave Turner, following the successful march, indicated that the goal of $19,000 for Center construction had been exceeded.

Maxwell's trek successful

Long Beach Mayor Sam Maxwell, fighting against overwhelming odds, traveled ten miles and captured for the crippled children $100 in donations from Long Beach citizens.

Prior to the historic walk, Maxwell sat on the edge of the sea wall, apparently lost in thought. He was dressed comfortably and was wearing the sun glasses he would need later in the afternoon to battle the sun's glare.

Nearby two of his supporters, Police Chief Harry Kaletsch and Alderman Jimmy Moran discussed the chances of picking up the mayor a short distance down the beach and driving him home.

Moran was the one who challenged Maxwell to walk the ten miles for the charity cause at last Tuesday's city council meeting.

Finally the time for the event came. Maxwell flashed a victory sign as if defying Moran's weak faith in him, and struck out down the beach.

Later that evening, Maxwell showed that his confidence was not ill-founded as he jogged in the last hundred yards with state representative Earl "Buck" Ladner. Unfortunately no one was keeping time.

Pass Chamber for preserving islands

Commendations are in order to the Pass Christian Chamber of Commerce which has taken a stand for preservation and protection of our natural resources.

Following the Coast appearance last week of Dr. Donald Bradburn, New Orleans pathologist and conservation photographer, the Pass Chamber addressed the following letter to the Hearing Officer, Gulf Islands National Seashore, Ocean Springs:

Dear Sir:

The Pass Christian Chamber of Commerce strongly urges the National Park Service to preserve Horn and Petit Bois Islands off the eastern Mississippi Gulf Coast, and leave the islands the way they are.

We feel that any developing of either island would ruin the balance of nature. Most people enjoy the islands in their wilderness state much more than they would if they were to become developed in any way.

Once development starts, little though it may be, it leads to more developing and then (sic) the islands are lost forever.

I will be attending the hearing on December 2nd, which is being held in Biloxi, to again state the feelings of the Pass Christian Chamber of Commerce.

Sincerely yours,
(Mrs.) Lillian Dillard
Exec. - Secretary

Chamber prepares for its move

The Long Beach Chamber of Commerce at its November meeting selected a committee of four to help the chamber get ready for the move to the small-craft harbor. The committee — which consists of Mayor Sam Maxwell, Bob Richards, Dr. Max Edrington, and Carl Collins — is planning to meet with the harbor commission director C. L. Roshore within the next few days about the projected move. According to Mayor Maxwell, Roshore has suggested that the sewage might be a problem in the move.

Also, civic organizations are going to meet next week to choose a representative to help with a poll to see if residents outside the city would be interested in becoming part of the city. The poll was suggested by Bob Richards who is interested in getting these people's views on such a plan.

In another matter, the chamber discussed the Three members were selected to count the votes which must be returned no later than November 29. They are Dr. Joe Holloway, Don Presley, and President James McGehee.

Pass School Board Hires Malchow

The Pass Christian school board hired Clark Malchow of Environmental Engineers of Gulfport to design plans and specifications for the water well at the DeLisle Elementary School. According to Superintendent LeRoy Lizana, it was necessary to hire professional engineering help in designing the well because of the state health department requirements.

Malchow indicated that in designing a well for the school, considerations should be made to future growth anticipated by the impact of the DuPont Plant.

Superintendent Lizana gave the board a report on a recent meeting with city officials and representatives of the Mississippi Coast Transportation Authority. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss city limit transportation. The MCTA has expressed an interest in developing an interim transportation program that could perhaps assist those parents who are experiencing difficulties in getting their children to and from school. The board authorized the superintendent to conduct a feasibility study throughout the district to determine the number of parents who would be interested in city limit transportation through the MCTA program.

In other business bids were opened for a tractor storage shed to be constructed on the Pass Christian High School campus. Three bids were received: S. W. Puckett $4,370; Balbo Construction $3,489; and Spencer Construction $2,281.63. All bids were taken under advisement for study and tabulation. Bid quotes were also received for senior handbooks: Hi Speed Copy and Tarpon Beacon submitted bids. The bids were taken under advisement. Bid quotes were received for a power saw for the Pass Christian High School Industrial Arts department. Bids received were: Martin Hardware $92.50; Western Auto $104.95; and W. S. Keel Lumber Company $87. The board voted to purchase a motor for $120 for a sanding machine in the Pass High Shop program.

Central School Supply Company was awarded the bid for award jackets and letters. The board voted to award the contract for maintenance of office machines to Welch and Co. of Gulfport.

The board voted to place the mimeograph and duplicator machines under a state maintenance contract with Gulfport Graphics Company. The board has received no bids on maintenance of the machines and, as indicated by Superintendent Lizana, the machines were in need of maintenance.

In other action the board voted to: —authorize the Superintendent to attend a two day workshop on "Teacher Negotiations" to be held on the campus of University of Southern Mississippi Gulf Park.

authorize the district to participate in the federal senior aids program.

authorize two Middle School Teachers, Huey Singleton and Dick Kinsler to attend workshops during November.

approved David Ross as student cafeteria worker for Pass High.

Two injured in four car pileup

Only two of 18 persons involved were injured in a four-car mishap Tuesday on Highway 603 in Kiln, Miss.

The accident occurred in front of the Kiln post office about 10:15 a.m. when Herbert E. Buchanan, 48, of Bay St. Louis, crossed the yellow line on a curve in the highway and crashed into the first car in a three-car caravan of Louisiana residents, traveling north on the highway.

Buchanan, according to investigating Highway Patrolman Hershel Ladner, collided with the left side of a 1971 Chevrolet, then ran the second car, a 1972 Ford wagon off the road, and hit the third auto, a 1971 Ford Mustang, before finally running off the road into a deep ditch.

All of the cars were demolished, Ladner said except the Pinto station wagon which ran off the road to avoid collision with Buchanan. Although Buchanan was alone in his auto, there were six passengers in the first car, driven by Lloyd L. Lagrange, 45, of Gretna, La.; another six passengers in the second car, driven by David Robert Hickman, 23, of Belle Chasse, La.; and two passengers with David M. Schexnayfer, 20, driver of the third auto. Schexnayfer listed a Gretna address.

Buchanan, who suffered cuts and abrasions of the face, arms and hands, was taken to Hancock General Hospital by Mobile Medic Ambulance, along with Timmy Arnold, 16-year-old passenger in Lagrange's car. Buchanan refused treatment but Arnold was held at the hospital with possible chest, lung and head injuries.

DWI and driving on the wrong side of the road crossing the yellow line. He is held at Hancock County jail under $250 bond.

Lilliputian wonderland in national mag

by David Pierson
Long Beach Bureau

Remember the story of Gulliver surrounded by all the little people called Lilliputians? Well, thanks to Ed Hankenson of Long Beach these miniature people would feel right at home in the Long Beach Library—and not necessarily between the covers of "Gulliver's Travels"—but in their own colonial-style doll house.

The house is made on the scale of one inch for one foot and measures 33 inches wide, 34 inches long, and 31 inches high. In all the house is made up of seven rooms, a bath, a front and back stairs hall, an upstairs veranda that runs the length of the house, a lovely brick chimney on either end of the house, and white shutters trimmed in green. The windows are made of plexi-glass.

Hankenson, a 68-year-old retired teacher and seed salesman, donated his woodworking marvel to the Long Beach Library; and it is being featured in this month's "Hobbies" magazine, a magazine with national circulation.

Hankenson said that he got his directions from a book entitled, "Making Useful Things of Wood" and that he styled his doll house in the pre-Civil War period. But he adds, "I took some liberties." Liberties such as a miniature television, a washer, a dryer, and lamps.

The house is made of plywood, and both the front and the back are removable to provide easy access to all the rooms.

The rooms are covered with Con-Tac paper, and the walls in the front and back halls are paneled in walnut.

"Perhaps the most outstanding room," says

Hankenson, "is the living room on the lower right. Dominating the living room is a fireplace made of walnut, mahogany and scored to simulate tile. In the fireplace are a pair of tiny brass andirons supporting round logs, and serving the fireplace is a brick red chimney made of solid stock and lined to represent brick. A twin chimney is on the other end of the house."

The living room furniture—made of mahogany, walnut, maple, cherry, and cedar—consists of a sofa, a coffee table, two end tables, two table lamps, a wing chair, and an overstuffed chair. Other creations found in the house are a grandfather clock, paintings, a desk, bookshelves, a dressing table with drawers that pull out, candles, and a commode made of plaster of paris.

Hankenson's wife, Jessie, had a hand in the work log, lace curtains, velvet draperies, the upholstery, the bedspreads, as well as the tiny plastic flowers were her way of adding the woman's touch to a little girl's wonderland.

Hankenson recommends this hobby for anyone who is restless or has a little time on his hands. In all, the doll house called for 300 hours of work.

So if your child is not interested in reading, bring him or her to the Long Beach Library children's section. It may not inspire them to read "Making Useful Things of Wood," but they might be interested in reading Jonathan Swift's story of the people who would feel right at home in Ed Hankenson's doll house.

Scouts say thanks

President John G. Phillips of the New Orleans Area Council, Boy Scouts of America estimates that there are thousands of individuals, businesses, and other institutions in this area who contribute to Scouting in many ways.

Adult Scout leaders, officials and their guests will attend a Cypress District Recognition banquet December 5 in Slidell, to recognize those adults who have given many hours of volunteer time in the development of the Scouting program in the District.

Heading the list of awards to be presented are District Awards of Merit, Scouters Keys, Scouters Training Award, Gold Arrowhead Award, Outstanding Scoutmaster and Cubmaster Awards among others.

Phillips also said that many Scouting units will be conducting Thanksgiving Good Turns during the holiday period.

Michael Haas, Bay St. Louis attorney, is District chairman, Taylor Chandler of Slidell is Awards chairman and Bill Von Almen, New Orleans, is District Commissioner.

SHADES OF IBSEN - Views of the front and the back of Ed Hankenson's doll house show the results of the 300 hours it took to build and furnish the seven-room, one-bath, colonial-style toyhouse. Hankenson's creation is being featured in this month's issue of "Hobbies" magazine.

Get educated, then get involved

In these fast-paced, "rat race" times, perhaps too little attention is paid to the health of the community. But we learn a hard lesson, and pay heavily for it, when a health problem enters the home.

That is why, now more than ever, people should know the score both for their own welfare and for the benefit of their loved ones and friends.

During the month of December, the Mississippi Chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society will conduct its annual Education Month campaign to better acquaint residents of this area with the facts about MS, the crippling disease that usually strikes young adults in the 20-to-40 age bracket. The disease continues to create emotional and economic chaos in hundreds of thousands of homes across the U.S.

If you have multiple sclerosis, if you know an MS patient, or if your heart impels you to get involved, contact the Mississippi Chapter at 625 W. Northside Drive, Jackson, Mississippi 39206, Telephone: 366-1021.

To learn and to know are among the greatest satisfactions in life. To make use of knowledge — of MS and other diseases — for the betterment of mankind is one of the best rewards we can claim in the world in which we live.

Colling's Corner

By E.S. Colling

Back in pre-Revolution days, one of the New England colonies showed on its flag a large snake and the motto: "Don't tread on me".

All through the history of our country, that has been the spirit of its people. England, Mexico, Spain, Germany, Japan, each in turn has mistaken our good-nature for weakness, and has learned that it was not.

Today we are faced with another crisis, and we wonder why it is being accepted so placidly by the people. This time the attack is from within, from our very own countrymen, and it is affecting the welfare and well-being of all the rest of us. The few are causing distress and sacrifice for the millions. The poor and the middle-income citizens are being systematically exploited and robbed by money-grubbers who are taking full advantage of the weakness of our government to curb them and hold their avarice in check.

What we need today is more of the "don't tread on me" spirit of our forefathers. We blame the Arabs, for instance, for the fuel shortage, and so we should — but have you noticed the huge increase in profits of the major oil companies, our loving, patriotic fellow citizens? We have seen prices of almost everything skyrocket without reason — sugar, for instance, while the growers and processors are laughing heartily on their way to the bank.

These, and hundreds of other instances, are because we are not organized to prevent them. We must have these and other commodities; the big companies and combines know this, and reap huge profits while many of our people are hearing the starvation level. Our skilled workers, already receiving handsome wages, go on strike, again raising the prices of everything.

But, we say, it's due to the recession. Wrong: it IS the recession. We say we can't fight it, because we are not organized. Wrong again: we have the greatest power in the country, the vote. If we stood together and replaced most of our "leaders" with men and women who had the welfare of their fellow-countrymen — rather than their own — at heart, we soon would have something more than Mr. Ford's "WIN" buttons to defeat inflation and recession. We would have a nationwide legal limit on profits.

NEWS FROM THE CAPITOL

from U.S. SENATOR
JOHN STENNIS

STENNIS CHARGES BUSING OF FIRST AND EDUCATION LAST

"This pattern of busing school children from one community to another purely to achieve a racial balance is the rankest kind of discrimination against all black children and all white children."

This was the sentiment expressed by Senator John C. Stennis in a speech on the Senate Floor Tuesday (11-19) as he supported an anti-busing amendment to the Labor-HEW Appropriations bill.

Denouncing policies of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare as "Simply a bureaucratic scheme to carry out busing," Stennis claimed that this matter has been carried "far beyond that first (court) decision," and "is contrary to every principle that America has stood for, as I understand the basic concepts of our Constitution."

Referring to the situation in the South, Stennis said, "We have integrated our schools. We are carrying on the best we can, with some success... with the rules that were laid down by the courts originally."

Stennis reminded the other Senators that, "I stood on this floor years ago and said we in the South will live with and abide by any rule that the membership of Congress outside the South will apply to themselves."

"Speaking with the greatest deference to the courts," Stennis said,

"time after time the courts have turned this matter down, literally turned their backs to the situation and refused to cope with the real problem."

In this situation the courts "have not given us a real rule with reference to busing just for a racial balance. This scheme has not really been approved yet by the highest courts," Stennis said. Without such a ruling, the situation has progressed to the point of "literally taking little children, black and white, out of their own communities, away from their parents and friends and placing them in strange places, among strange faces and surroundings just to achieve a numerical balance," Stennis said. "This is not only far beyond the first decision on this matter, but it is ridiculous on its face."

Stennis explained that "Court orders" and HEW guidelines have created an unconstitutional situation by refusing to allow students to go to their neighborhood schools solely because of their race.

"It has reached the point," Stennis charged, "where statistics and busing come first, not real education."

"HEW doesn't look to see if discrimination exists, but rather if a certain racial balance is in existence," he continued. "The people of our Nation are tired of busing and other government interference with their schools," Stennis concluded.

UNWELCOME GUEST

Our Readers Write

Dear Sir:

Just a note to give our people of Bay St. Louis another reason to be thankful and proud — I have never had any real contact with our local fire department except in knowing they operate out of the old Valena C. Jones school building and in seeing them on campus to conduct fire drills.

On Thursday morning at 1:15 a.m. we had a near tragedy. This dedicated group of men answered our emergency call in less than five minutes from the time it was placed. They arrived when Brother Martin's house was an inferno of flames. Though the heat was intense, they moved in at close range to bring the fire under control so as to keep the main house from catching on fire.

They were aware — I am sure — that the gas line could have blown up, aware of the heat and smoke, but undaunted they were determined to quell this inferno. After bringing the situation under control these dedicated men, stayed wet and cold until they felt assured that the last ember would not burst into flames again.

Satisfied, they left at the miserable hour of 4 a.m. I am sure they had out in a good days work the day before and still had a days work ahead of them.

The prompt manner in which these men responded to our call for help and their knowledgeable handling of this dangerous situation is certainly a credit to our town. So join with us at St. Stanislaus in saying thanks to an A No. 1 fire department. Thanks fellows! God bless and protect you in your wonderful yet dangerous service to our community. I am gratefully,

In Cordé Jesu,

Brother Pierre, S.C.
President, St. Stanislaus.

DEAR Editor:

May I use your newspaper as a means of informing the people of Bay St. Louis of the efficient service of the Mobile Medic Ambulance Service.

On Oct. 20 about 8:30 p.m. I suffered a heart attack, began to choke and couldn't get my breath.

Within fifteen minutes the ambulance was at the school and personnel began administering oxygen at once.

On the way to the hospital my blood pressure and pulse were taken and given to the doctor on my arrival at the hospital. The doctor was able to start at once administering medications in my veins. Within an hour I was able to begin to breathe normally.

My praise and thanks to Mobile Ambulance Service. I think they are a great asset to our community.

Sincerely,

Bro. Augustine Roftery

Washington Report

SAFE DRINKING WATER

Since Congress has already jumped on everything from motherhood to apple pie, we thought it only proper last week to tackle the merits of safe drinking water.

After we all agreed that clean water is, indeed, in the best interests of the American people, we proceeded to pass the Safe Drinking Water Act.

And out of 435 members of the House of Representatives, only 85 voted against it.

Actually, H. R. 13002 is designed to assure that all public water systems meet minimum national safe-drinking standards. The Senate version, S. 433, passed this Senate on June 22, 1973.

Proposed back in 1971, the bill had done nothing but gather dust until last month's disturbing announcement that up to 66 cancer-causing agents have been found in drinking water in New Orleans, Cincinnati and Washington. Suddenly, safe drinking water became a hot issue.

Obviously concerned by that announcement, House members went even further than the initial requirements spelled out in the measure. We passed, by voice vote, an amendment directing the Environmental Protection Agency to conduct a complete study of cancerous agents in the nation's water supply and report back to Congress in six months.

Basically, the House-passed bill gives EPA the power to set federal standards for protection from all harmful contaminants. It also establishes a Federal-State system for assuring compliance with these standards and for protecting underground sources of drinking water.

It authorizes some $156.2 million worth of EPA research, loans to small water systems, surveys of drinking water situations, and technical assistance to states. That's a lot of money, but at least — in this case — we're looking after our own citizens instead of solving drinking water problems in Chile or some other foreign country.

The major difference between the House and Senate versions involves the Federal-State question of enforcement. The Senate version would give EPA more enforcement power, but the House-passed measure would give the primary enforcement responsibility to the individual states.

Actually, the House version would give the power to the states if they adopt regulations as stringent as the national regulations and if they adopt and implement adequate enforcement procedures.

That places the monkey on the back of the individual state, which is where the burden should fall. In addition, I think it is always best to let the states have the lead.

Then, if any public water system does not comply, there will be various administrative steps to give notice and require compliance. If those administrative steps fail, the Administrator at the national level may bring appropriate civil action in the Federal courts.

As for exemptions to the regulations, the Administrator or states with primary enforcement responsibility may exempt public water systems from any requirement if the system was in operation prior to the effective date of the particular regulation.

In short, this is the kind of legislation we should have promoted long ago. Nevertheless, its passage comes at a time when we need some provisions to insure that American citizens have safe drinking water.

VA News

EDITOR'S NOTE: Veterans and their families are asking thousands of questions concerning the benefits their Government provides for them through the Veterans Administration. Below are some representative queries. Additional information may be obtained at any VA office.

Q — I'm eligible for a GI loan, and wonder if the Veterans Administration will guarantee a loan for both a mobile home and land to place it on?

A — Yes. The maximum guaranty for mobile homes is $10,000. But if the loan includes site acquisition, it can be increased to $17,500.

Q — I have an "RS" National Service Life Insurance policy as a result of service during the Korean Conflict. administration pay dividends on this policy?

A — Not yet. However, starting Jan. 1, 1975, the agency will pay dividends on both "RS" and "W" — prefixed policies, as authorized under PL 93-289 (May 1974).

Q — I was discharged from military service June 15, 1966. How long do I have to enter on-job training?

A — Veterans discharged since Jan. 31, 1955, have 10 years from date of last separation or until Aug. 30, 1977, whichever is later, to complete flight, farm cooperative or on-job training.

Q — I am the widow of a World War II veteran who died as a result of a service-connected injury before using his GI home loan entitlement. I have not remarried. Am I eligible for this Veterans Administration benefit?

A — Yes. If they are not currently married, widows of veterans of World War II and later periods who died of service-connected causes, as well as wives of servicemen missing in action of prisoners of war for more than 90 days are eligible for this benefit.

Q — How can I get a job with the Veterans Administration similar to the one I had in a medical laboratory before discharge from service?

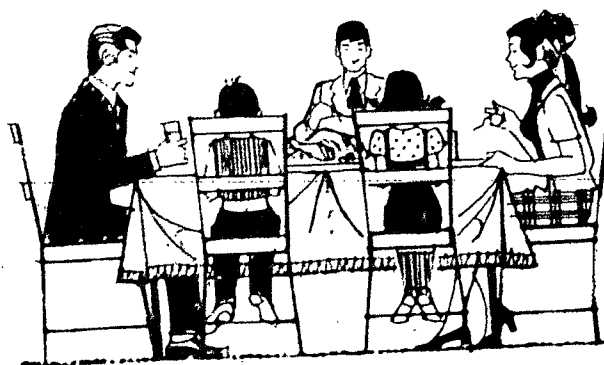

A — Suggest you contact the personnel office of nearest VA hospital for information on employment opportunities at the agency's hospitals and clinics. You may qualify for a Veterans Readjustment Act Appointment. If you do, it would eliminate much of the paper work connected with Civil Service appointments.

Q — How many nurses are caring for the nation's veterans at Veterans Administration hospitals?

A — The agency's corps of registered nurses increased 7 per cent, or 1,551, during fiscal year 1974. A total of 22,968 nurses provide quality medical care for veterans at 171 hospitals and 212 outpatient clinics. Assisting them are 6,078 licensed practical nurses and 25,027 nursing assistants.

Thanksgiving

A DAY TO COUNT OUR BLESSINGS

SOMETHING TO BE THANKFUL FOR!

How fortunate we are to be living in a land that has been blessed with such great abundance for so many years. As each family gathers around the table this Thanksgiving Day, there'll be choruses of "oohs" and "aahs" over the beautiful turkey Mother has prepared and the bountiful spread before us. When you stop to think about it, we have a lot to be thankful for.

Christmas gifts

The Senior Citizens Christmas Bazaar Saturday will feature stuffed toys, ceramics, art work, and many other kinds of handwork done by the 85 member organization displayed by Miss Mildred Lauderdale. The public is invited to the event which will be held on the grounds of the St. Patrick's Episcopal Church in Long Beach. Refreshments will be served.

Text combines sciences

A University of Mississippi professor has co-edited the first pharmacy textbook coordinating social science and behavioral science concepts with modern pharmacy practice.

Dr. Mickey C. Smith, chairman of the Department of Health Care Administration and assistant director of the Bureau of Pharmaceutical Services, worked with University of Minnesota professor, Dr. Albert I. Wertheimer, in editing "Pharmacy Practice, Social and Behavioral Aspects."

The 574-page illustrated text was published this month by University Park Press, Baltimore, Md., international publisher of major science and medical works.

Senior Citizens present bazaar

If you are having trouble with your Christmas shopping, stop by the Long Beach Senior Citizens Bazaar this Saturday between 9 a.m. and 6 p.m. They have on display a marvelous selection of hand-made Christmas gifts, and each gift has a fascinating story on how it was made.

Stuffed toys, centerpieces, and finely detailed ceramics, art work, decorated towels — using very simple materials, the senior citizens have created a wide selection of Christmas gifts to please any member of the family. Pottery, needlework, decoupage, and candles can also be purchased at the bazaar.

The bazaar will be held in the trailer next to St. Patrick's Episcopal Church, just west of the National Food Store. And the coordinator for the program, Carol Wehant, says that refreshments will be served.

The Long Beach senior citizens with 85 members is possible the largest such organization in this section of the country. The volunteer workers for this organization are Theresa Holley, Billie Busche, June Downey, Henrietta Eccles, Rita Millet, Haydee Brisolar, Jean Ducote, and Erma Wood.

Harold Tunnell is the president of the senior citizens group. The public is invited.

The National Multiple Sclerosis Society is the only national voluntary health agency conducting programs in national and international research to find the cause, prevention and cure of MS. Since its inception in 1946, the National Multiple Sclerosis Society has allocated more than $22.5 million for research and millions more for patient services.

GED tests

The General Educational Development (GED) test will be administered on December 6 and 7 provided ten or more applications are submitted and approved prior to the testing dates. Any non-high-school graduate adult wanting to earn a certificate of high school equivalency should file an application and take the test.

Applications and additional information can be obtained by calling the Pearl River Junior College, Hancock County Vocational-Technical Center at 467-3568.

An Invitation To Help - RSVP

Ed. Note: This is another of a continuing series of articles on RSVP, Retired Senior Volunteer Program, serving Hancock County. The series is authored by Mrs. Ethel Evans, a member of the organization.)

Since its beginning, May 7, 1973, the Retired Senior Volunteer Program has climbed steadily upward. As of this date there are 203 men and women who have given a total of 38,262 hours of service to Others. Does that not give you cause to pause and realize how very thankful the recipients of this love and care and help must be? Today this column will carry excerpts from the November "Newsletter" which RSVP's DIRECTOR, Mrs. Millie Fisher, and assistant director, Mrs.

Theresa James, send monthly to all the VIV's (Very Important Volunteers). "The art of Thanksgiving is ThanksLIVING. It is gratitude in action. It is in applying Albert Schweitzer's philosophy "In gratitude for your own good fortune you must render, in return, some sacrifice of your life for other life." It is by thanking God for all that men and women have done for you by doing things for others. It is thanking God for happiness by striving to make others happy. It is thanking God for each new day by living it to the fullest. It is thanking God by giving hands, arms, legs and voice to your thankful spirit. It is adding to your prayers of Thanksgiving acts of ThanksLIVING." (Quoted from W. Peterson). These words exemplify the work that is done by those who are a part of the Retired Senior Volunteer Program. Those who give of their time and efforts are thankful they have the time and bodily strength to be of help to others; those who receive are thankful they are not alone and uncared for. RSVP has much to be thankful for too. As one of the programs gathered under the United Way umbrella, it is probably also one of the most needed types of service a community can have. Blessed with a Director and Assistant Director who truly care, they are a guiding light and inspiration to the volunteers who work with -- and for -- them.

Therefore at this Thanksgiving season, the folks of Hancock County join together to gratefully thank God for the tremendous, wonderful, unbelievable work being done by the Retired Senior Volunteers. (If you're not one of 'em, join 'em NOW. RSVP office phone number is 467-9204).

Pace steps up in MS research

After more than a century of painstaking research into what is unquestionably one of medicine's strangest enigmas, multiple sclerosis, scientists are now penetrating more and more the invisible shield that has barred them from the answer to MS, the crippling disease of the central nervous system that usually strikes young adults.

This was the assessment of MS research made recently by currier, chairman of the Medical Advisory Board of the Mississippi Chapter, National Multiple Sclerosis Society, currently in the midst of its annual MS Education Month Campaign.

"The general public knows very little about multiple sclerosis, its damaging emotional and economic impact on so many American homes, and what is being done to combat it," Dr. Currier said.

The current progress in MS research is credited to several encouraging developments, according to Dr. Currier. They include new research findings, the recent recommendations made by the prestigious National Advisory Commission on Multiple Sclerosis, the establishment of the $100,000 Ralph I. Straus Research Award, and increased Society support of research projects around the world.

Today's research into the cause of multiple sclerosis is focused primarily on the idea that the disease process is the result of a slow-acting virus or an autoimmune response, or both. There also is evidence that environmental factors may play an etiological, or causative, role.

One of the most exciting discoveries is MS research was made recently by Dr. Hilary Koprowski of the Wistar Institute in Philadelphia, who reported finding a parainfluenza virus in the brain tissue of MS patients. Similar findings were reported in independent studies in England and Australia.

To implement this discovery, the Society announced its participation with the National Institute of Neurological Disease and Stroke of the National Institutes of Health in the $3 million Philadelphia Project, under the direction of Dr. Koprowski and Dr. Donald H. Silberberg of the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine. It is the most intensive investigation of MS in humans ever undertaken and represents one of the largest grants ever made by the Society and the government agency for a single MS study.

The major recommendations of the National Advisory Commission on Multiple Sclerosis included: allocation of an additional $37 million for basic neurological research over the next three years; budgeting of $17 million over the next three years for research directly relevant to MS; three additional clinical research centers (one of which already has been set up); an MS Treatment Center to evaluate methods of treatment, and coordinated multi-disciplinary attack on MS under the direction of the NINDS.

The $100,000 Ralph I. Straus Research Award, established by the New York philanthropist, is the largest prize ever offered in American medical history and will be given "to the scientist or scientists, anywhere in the world, whose published research has resulted in the development of an effective and specific method of preventing or arresting multiple sclerosis."

In its intensified research thrust, the Society allocated more than $2.4 million for research in 1973 and is currently supporting some 94 research projects around the world, plus 20 fellowships. Since its inception in 1946, the society has allocated nearly $24 million for MS research. The Society always budgets a minimum of 50 percent of national expenditures for its research and medical programs. Society programs are supported entirely and voluntarily by the public. The Society's chapters throughout the nation provide MS patients with services such as physical therapy and rehabilitation, employment counseling, referral to community resources, case-finding, visiting, recreation and aids to daily living. Anyone wishing further information about MS or the Society should write or call the Mississippi MS Chapter, P. O. Box 10072, Jackson, Mississippi, 39206, Telephone: 366-1021.

Magnolia Boys' Town

Dear Santa:

I don't want to ask for too much

Dear Mr. or Ms. Santa:

My name is Ricky. I live at Magnolia Boys' Town. My mother and daddy are divorced. My mother didn't want me and my daddy said he could not take care of me. Before coming here, I slept in a concrete culvert behind what was supposed to be my home.

I like it here. I have lots of buddies, plenty to eat, warm clothes, and I go to school and attend church every Sunday. I know I am wanted and loved. If I could have my first wish, it would be to have my own mother and daddy back together at our own house. I know this can't be, so I am proud of my second home.

I don't want to ask for too much -- like a car, stereo, etc., but I would like some Sunday clothes to wear to church. PLEASE!

Your Little Buddy - Ricky

The above letter, written by one of the many youngsters living at Magnolia Boys' Town in Laurel, Miss. is not only touching but typical of just about all of the 700 neglected and unwanted boys who have been taken in at the Home in the past 20 years by Henry Bucklew, founder and director of Magnolia Boys' Town.

Bucklew, who speaks proudly of the many graduates of Boys' Town who have distinguished themselves in adulthood, is appealing to the public for assistance in providing his boys with a Christmas this year.

Gifts from the public are often the only gifts that the boys receive and administrators of the Home have to depend on others' generosity so that none of the youngsters will be left out.

A gift of $5 will buy a basket of fruits and nuts; $10 will buy a new pair of pants and a shirt; $25 will give a boy shoes, pants and a shirt and $40 will buy him a complete Christmas outfit.

Gifts may be sent to Magnolia Boys' Town, P.O. Box 608, Laurel, Miss.

Medicare handbook out

A new edition of Your Medicare Handbook is being mailed to 23.5 million people across the nation, according to Charles E. Wofford, district manager of the Gulfport social security office.

"The new 1974 handbook is smaller and easier to handle than previous editions," Wofford said. "A copy should be in the hands of everyone who has Medicare by the end of November."

The completely new edition is a result of major amendments made in the Medicare program in the past 2 years.

"The new handbook explains in detail how Medicare hospital and medical insurance work," he said. "It tells what kinds of care Medicare covers and how much Medicare pays for each kind of care. It also tells what Medicare does not cover."

An index in the new handbook will help people quickly locate information about a particular Medicare subject, Wofford noted.

"When people get their new Medicare handbook, they should throw away any old editions they have," he said. "They should keep the new 1974 edition where they can find it when they need information about Medicare."

Medicare helps pay the health care bills of people 65 and over, of disabled people who have been entitled to social security disability benefits for at least 24 consecutive months, and of many people with chronic kidney disease.

Disabled are eligible for S.S. at 18

People disabled since childhood may be eligible for supplemental security income payments when they reach age 18, regardless of their families' income, according to Charles E. Wofford, social security district manager in Gulfport.

The supplemental security income program makes monthly payments to those with little or no income and limited resources who are 65 and over or blind or disabled. "The program can be especially important to young people who are severely retarded or have other handicaps that keep them from becoming self-supporting," Wofford said.

Eligible people can get supplemental security income payments at any age, but the eligibility of children under 18 can be affected by their parents' income and resources. "However," Wofford said, "severely disabled people who remain unmarried are considered independent of their families starting at 18, or at 21 if they're in school. Starting then, they may be eligible for some supplemental security income payments if they have little or no income of their own."

Families of children disabled since childhood can get information about applying for supplemental security income payments by calling or writing any social security office.

County Agent's Notes

John W. Smith

SOYBEAN SEED
It is not too soon to begin lining up your soybean planting seed for 1975. Unfavorable weather in different parts of the county cause a widespread variation in quality and germination. There is also probably going to be a big increase in planted acres next year. This makes it doubly important that you ensure your seed supply.

DAIRY BREEDING NOTES
Here are some steps that will help you increase dairy profits:

Breed cows and heifers to the best bulls available. With few exceptions, this would be the bulls offered through artificial insemination.

Breed dairy animals to dairy bulls. This is a must to allow you to cull properly and have enough replacements. Breed your heifers to dairy bulls also. The first calf is not inferior to calves born later to the same cow.

Study weaknesses in the herd and breed to bulls which are strong in these areas. Don't use too many different bulls. Develop a few cow families and you will find it easier to correct weaknesses in the herd and to develop strong desirable characteristics.

Breed your heifers so that they will calve the first time when they are around 24 months old—maybe a little older for the larger breeds. Attempt to have each cow calving every 12 months. A cow is more profitable if she calves once a year. Milk her 305 days and give her a 60-day dry period.

HOME GARDENING
Start now getting the garden ready for spring planting. Clean the dead summer plants from the garden. Take up, clean and store bean and tomato stakes.

Take soil samples. If the garden soil needs lime, apply it. Get rows ready for January planting.

Try to grow some asparagus. This is a good month to start a bed. Work the soil deeply and use plenty of organic matter. If you get an asparagus bed established and take care of it, you can cut asparagus for years without replanting.

WEED CONTROL
Sure, we have a lot of good herbicides that do wonders in controlling weeds. But they won't do the job alone.

"The amount of the monthly supplemental security income payments people get depends primarily on other income they might have," Wofford said. "Those with no other income at all can get $146 a month for one person and $219 for a couple. Others with some other income may get reduced supplemental security income payments."

The supplemental security income program is run by the Social Security Administration, an agency of the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. The Gulfport social security office is at 02015 Pass Road.

Persons disabled since childhood may also be eligible for social security benefits if a parent gets social security payments or has worked long enough under social security and is deceased, according to Wofford. "The amount of monthly social security payments can affect the amount of supplemental security income payments," he said. The phone number is 1-896-1324.

Document missing 42 years is found

An event of major importance to Mississippi historians occurred recently in the Mississippi Department of Archives and History, when a valuable typescript, prepared as the fourth and final volume of the "Mississippi Provincial Archives, French Dominion," compiled, translated and edited for publication by the late Dunbar Rowland and A. C. Sanders, but missing for 42 years, was discovered by Department archivists assisting Dr. H. Gaston Hall, University of Warwick, in his research.

Dr. Hall, a native Jacksonian who graduated from Millsaps College, then attended Oxford University as a Rhodes scholar and earned his doctorate at Yale, is now a reader in French at the University of Warwick, Warwick, England.

On his return visit to Jackson, Dr. Hall came to the Department of Archives and History to search for unpublished translations of the French archives, which Professor Sanders had told him might be in the Department. The result of the search was the location of an important manuscript, which had been bound and erroneously labelled forty-two years ago. In a memorandum to Elbert Hilliard, director of the Department of Archives and History, Dr. Hall reports the discovery as follows: "Publication of the Mississippi Provincial Archives in five separate series was one of the most important of the historical ventures undertaken in the years between World Wars I and II. But publication of the French Dominion series ran into difficulty in the depression years, when volumes three (The Bienville Papers) and four (The Final Years) were almost ready for the printers, Little and Ives.

"From the correspondence of Professor Sanders and of Dr. Rowland with the printers and various scholars between February and April, 1932, it is clear that for reasons of economy it was decided first to publish volumes 3 and 4 together as a double volume of about 1525 pages. But the deteriorating economic climate appears to have forced Dr. Rowland to abandon publication of volume 4 altogether, a result naturally most disappointing to the editors.

"It is now clear that the typescript for volume 4, which Professor Sanders considered irretrievably lost or destroyed until his death earlier this year, was in the Archives all the time. Its existence went unknown because it was bound as if it had been the copy for volume 3 and so was catalogued, while the actual copy for volume 3 was simply stored in a box.

"Thus it appeared from the Archives Catalog, from the label on the spine of the typescript volume, and even from the title page of that volume - apparently the printer's proof of the title page of the published volume 3 - that the bound typescript volume contained only the copy for that published volume and that it no longer held much interest.

"But the eager collaboration of a talented staff historian, Clinton Bagley - assisted in his search by staff archivists Jo Ann Bomar and Ron Tomlin, produced all the relevant papers for comparison, leading in my opinion to one of the most exciting finds in the historiography of the state - volume 4 of the Mississippi Provincial Archives, French Dominion, as prepared for Little and Ives in 1931-32 - and as ready for publication now as it was 42 years ago.

"Historians everywhere know the value of that series, and I can testify as to the accuracy and skill of the translations wherever I have taken soundings. There must be many libraries and collectors who would still like to complete their sets; and I have no doubt that publication of this volume would be an important contribution to Mississippi historical studies and a suitable publication in connection with the national bi-centennial - especially as these documents run to 1763-64, the end of the French dominion."

Mr. Hilliard stated that if extensive checks prove the validity of the typescript beyond any doubt, plans for publication will be considered.

While serving in this capacity, Mrs. Rowden will be attending various regional workshops and kick-off meetings over the state as the Division undertakes takes to raise $500,000 for research, education and service and rehabilitation. "Cancer is our problem today - now - it cannot be pushed aside," said Mrs. Rowden. "It must be dealt with and we must dedicate our efforts to accomplish that which we say - to wipe out cancer in our lifetime."

Rocks win fifth, 68-50

By Dan Barber
Echo Sports Editor
The Bay High Tigers had their first taste of defeat Tuesday night as the St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaws handed the Tigers their first loss of the 1974-75 season, 68-50.

It was the fifth straight win for the Rock-A-Chaws. Will Marler collected 19 points, Robert Smith 14 and Paul Brown and Bud Lang 12 apiece for the Rocks of coach Bob Cuccaro.

The Tigers record after three early season wins stands at 3-1.

The Tigers have posted wins over Coast Episcopal (50-29), D'Iberville (74-69), and Pearl River Central (63-36).

High point man for the Tigers was Clarence Hargett with 14 points. Donald Lott was also in double figures for the Tigers with 11 points. Leading rebounder for the Tigers was Tom Barrett with seven followed by Bill Ginn with five grabs. Arnold Fairconnetue had five assists.

The Tigers, who return to action next Tuesday against Ocean Springs, have been without the services of two of their 1973 stalwarts.

Allison Favre, and Paul Saucier have both been out of the Tiger lineup since the season started. Favre is recovering from a broken foot and only saw limited play against Stanislaus Tuesday night. Both Favre and Saucier are expected to be back in the Tiger lineup after Christmas. Returning as Tiger coach is Mike Necaise, assisted by Myron Labat and Barney Necaise. Girls coach is Willie Bradley who had a spectacular season last year. Bradley's girls are currently 3-0 for the season with wins over Pascagoula (44-28), Coast Episcopal (55-13) and Chalmette, La. (68-47).

The Crystal Springs Tigers became the first team in the history of the Bay St. Louis Jaycee Bowl last Friday night to win two championships back to back after winning a tight defensive battle with the Chalmette, La. Owls 8-0.

The lone touchdown of the night came in the second quarter of the game on a pass from Crystal Springs quarterback Jimmy Kennedy to wing back Keith Ainsworth for 32 yards.

The Tigers later scored a safety in the fourth quarter when the Owls were backed up at their own goal line after a Tiger punt.

Chalmette punter Dennis

Pendergraft kept the Tigers deep in their own half of the field for much of the first and second half of the game where the Chalmette defense forced many third down and long yardage situations. But finally it was the passing arm of Kennedy that put the Tigers out front.

Kennedy was successful all during the second quarter on the short, over the middle pass, that kept the Owl defense guessing.

Running back Rusty Rogers for the Owls gave the Tiger line all they could handle in one night, breaking through consistently for good yardage. But quarterback Mickey Pitcher and his team couldn't capitalize on the Tiger mistakes.

The Owls were beaten completely in the final period of play after a Tiger punt was not fielded after rolling into a Owl player and was lost to an alert Crystal Springs player. The Tigers ran out the clock to wrap up their second Jaycee Bowl championship.

Outstanding defensive player, Steve Balamonte, of the Chalmette Owls receives his trophy from Bay St. Louis Jaycee Charlie Parker.

Hawks dribble Hornets 85-55

The Hancock North-Central Hawks under head coach Roland Lader extended their win record to four games against no losses Tuesday night as they eliminated the Poplarville Hornets 85-55 on the Hawks home court.

The Hornets never posed a threat to the Hawks who were paced by 6-1 forward Guy Necaise with 19 points.

The Hawks led 24-10 at the end of the first period and had a 45-20 advantage at the end of the first half.

Forward Bennie Lader paced the Hawks on the boards, grabbing nine rebounds for the night.

The Hawks have now registered wins over St. Martin (87-53), East Central (66-35) and Purvis (69-55) in addition to their victory over Poplarville Tuesday night.

First three game averages show 6-1 forward Jack Lewis leading the Hawks rebounding game with 15.3 per game. Lewis had a 34 point effort against Purvis High School last week in addition to grabbing 17 rebounds.

Leading in assists for the Hawks is 6-1 forward Bennie Lader with 5.5 per game. Randall is leading steals with an average of five per game.

The Hawks will host Harrison Central Friday night in what could be the Hawks biggest test yet.

In the girls' game Tuesday night, the Hawkettes defeated Poplarville 54-49 to increase their record to 3-1 overall.

The girls' only loss was to St. Martin 35-34. Their other wins have been against East Central (51-26) and Purvis (44-41).

Utica next on PRJC schedule

POPLARVILLE — Charles Rea, head basketball coach at Pearl River Junior College, has released the remaining first semester basketball schedule.

Only two more games will be played in the new million dollar coliseum before Christmas break. Conference pick, Utica will invade on Dec. 5, with the Hinds Eagles on Dec. 12. The Pearl River girls team will also play Hinds on Dec. 12.

Boys and girls away games will include Meridian, Dec. 3; Gulf Coast Tournament for boys, Dec. 6-7; and a return match for the girls and boys with East Central at Decatur on Dec. 10.

All PRC girls games begin at 6 p.m. with the boys following at 7:30 p.m.

Redfish are "red-hot"

Anyone would have been tickled pink to have hooked just one of the two nice sized red fish that Wilton Hoda was displaying proudly at his home Thursday.

Hoda though says that the two fish struck "his line simultaneously as he was fishing off the Bay St. Louis bridge. He was using a double lure.

"I guess if I lived another 50 years this would never happen to me again," Hoda said as he held up the two hefty red fish. Hoda said that a fellow fisherman on the bridge helped land the two fish, scooping up one of them in his crab-net as he reeled the two fish in.

"I knew I had something big on that line, but I never expected this. That line was really singing."

Thursday the two fish were lying peacefully in a wash tub for anyone that wanted to see. Hoda and his wife live at 127 Blue Meadow Road in the Bay.

Poplarville at Lumberton

The Poplarville Hornets will play Lumberton High School this Tuesday night at Lumberton before returning home to host the Poplarville Tournament Dec. 5-7.

The Hornets are coached by Larry Johnson (boys) and Doug Necaise (girls).

The Hornets dropped two games to the Hancock North Central Hawks this Tuesday night as the boys lost 85-55 and the girls were defeated 54-49.

Crystal Springs players display winner's trophy and smiles after winning second consecutive Bay St. Louis Jaycee Bowl championship.

Wildcats place six in post season awards

Six Pearl River Junior College Wildcats have been named for post season honors, according to PRC head football coach and athletic director Harvey Seligman.

Named to the 1974 All-State team were defensive ends Louis Jordan, Poplarville, and Willie Bullock, Petal; guard Tom May of Columbia; tailback Larry Tyrone, Columbia; and kicker Terry Adkins from North Forest.

May, Jordan, and Tyrone, along with tackle Steve Smith, Poplarville, will also participate in the annual North-South All Star Junior College Game in Tupelo.

Jordan, a former Poplarville Hornet was a mainstay at the defensive end position for the Cats for two seasons, and was leading tackler on several nights. Bullock, led the Pearl River backs in interceptions.

May, alternating as offensive and defensive guard, provided key blocks for the Wildcats for traps up the middle and around end.

Tyrone, the Cat's leading ground gainer, chalked up 621 yards, averaging over five yards per carry, while scoring five touchdowns. Tyrone gained more than 400 yards as a freshman.

Adkins, the nation's second best kicker as a freshman with 62 points, added six field goals this year and 12 extra points.

Homecoming breaks tradition

Linda Kennedy, Biloxi, will reign over the Homecoming activities at the University of Southern Mississippi in December. Her formal crowning will take place Dec. 7 in pre-game festivities before the basketball clash between the Golden Eagles and Lamar University.

Members of her court include Student Body Maid Susan Howard, Pearl; classmaids-Pam Stanhke, Meridian, Graduate; Sara Allen, Raymond, Senior; Jann Wyckoff, Meridian, Junior; Mollie Magee, Mendenhall, Sophomore; and Ann Harrington, New Orleans, Freshman.

The Dec. 6-7 Homecoming is a change from the usual November setting, made necessary because extensive stadium additions have precluded the traditional football game on campus.

Homecoming theme will be "The New Southern Style," and while there will be no downtown parade, returning alumni will be able to enjoy an extensive decorating project planned by various groups over the campus.

An alumni golf tournament will be held on Dec. 6, as will the annual meeting of the USM Foundation, a non-profit group which administers gifts to the University.

The second day has many events on tap, including open houses, election of officers for the Alumni Association, special entertainment, a Homecoming buffet, and a preview of a USO variety tour slated next year by the USM Theatre Arts Department.

Jimmy Buffet and his group, a Miami recording artist, song composer and guitarist, will follow the USO tour preview, in the Bennett Auditorium.

Admission to the buffet, entertainment, and the basketball game—in a "package deal"—is available at $4 per person, according to Powell Ogletree, Director of Alumni Affairs.

Pass High bows to Tomcats

The Stone High Tomcats closed out one of their best seasons in several years last Friday night with a convincing 21-7 Pickle Bowl victory over the Pass High Pirates. The win gave Stone a 10-1 worksheet for the season, the best recorded since Coach Mike Nelson's 1971 team also went 10-1 to win the DeSota Conference.

The first half was totally devoted to defense on the part of both teams, struggling to a 7-7 tie at intermission. Stone struck first after a poor Pass High punt gave the Tomcats the ball at the Pass High 27 yard line. It took the Tomcats 6 plays from that point, with Winston James getting the TD from 3 yards out. Peter Saia converted to give Stone a 7-0 lead with 11:20 left in the half.

Pass High began to move the ball late in the half, and moved 84 yards in 5 plays to paydirt, mainly by virtue of the pass. The score came when quarterback Albert Swanier connected with his tight end on a 10 yard pass. The conversion was true and the score stood 7-7 at halftime.

The Tomcat offense began to get untracked in the second half, moving for 156 yards and two touchdowns. Stone's rugged defense also rose to the occasion, allowing the Pirates only 9 total yards in the second half.

Stone's first tally of the second half came early in the 4th quarter, with 10:47 left to go. The scoring drive covered 45 yards and consumed 6 plays. The score was set up on a clutch third and long pass to Tommy Petersen from Raymond Earl Hatten, to put Stone in business at the Pass High 4 yard line. Fullback Wayne Sellers punched it over from that point, to give Stone a 13-7 lead. Saia again added the extra point to put Stone up at 14-7.

The Tomcats closed out the scoring with 6:30 left in the game. Winston James capped a 6 play, 42 yard drive as he darted in from the 7 yard line. Saia added the extra point to give Stone the final winning margin at 21-7.

SAVE YOUR HEART

Picking up the leaves scattered over your lawn may make your heart beat faster, and not alone because of the beauty-and bounty-of nature. The exertion can strain your heart.

You can save time and effort with a new low-cost invention called the "Griffin Leaver." It helps people pick up leaves two-thirds faster than by using the hand-raking method. And it's easy. All you do is rake the leaves into many small mounds and then pick up two-to-three bushels of leaves-including grass cuttings and twigs-with every scoop of the Leaver.

There has been beautiful fishing weather for the past week. The cold front which reached this area last week, warmed up and made the days ideal with cool nights.

The tides were mediocre, rather low, but still good for catching fish. For those who don't use artificial baits, good old frozen shrimp paid off as far as catching specks, red fish, sheepshead, flounders, and white trout went. Bass were caught mostly by casting with underwater baits, such as Snagless Sallies, Black Knats with pork rind and plastic worms.

Speckle Trout were gotten on live shrimp and artificial lures. They were caught in outside waters along the shore line of Heron Bay, Red Fish Bayou and along both bridges out front, at Bayou Caddy, Grassy Island and Half Moon.

Boats going out from Roy

Baxter's Camp reported catching both salt and fresh water fish. Other fishing camps where specks and red fish were caught were La France's Camp. Fishing in general was exceptionally good.

More red fish are now being caught than usual. They are of the rat red variety with some big ones thrown in. Live shrimp are proving more effective. Croakers are running nice size.

Those using live shrimp are catching bass and perch in deeper water. Earth worms were good, too.

Was a pleasure meeting B.M. Longone of the best green trout (Bass) fisherman here-about. He uses a small, pirogue like boat, about 12 feet long with a one cylinder motor. Does mostly casting and gets his share of green trout. He is no novice at this kind of fishing. Originally from New Orleans.

M.F. Cass from Hattiesburg was down for four days with me. We caught red fish, flounders, sheepshead, specks and croakers. Had a depth finder and located some deep holes up Jourdan River. Made some nice catches every day. Found out that fishing in these deep holes is the right way to get 'em.

salt water fishing, catching speckles, red fish, etc. He is a believer in live bait and spends a lot of time after the finny tribe.

Luke Elliott, his son Chip, M.F. Cass and yours truly spent Saturday casting for bass. Chip out-did the older fishermen catching some bass from 1 1/2 pounds to 3 pounds. He was using a Rebel Wee-R bait to perfection. It is a deep running plug with an orange colored belly. Just passing this work on to you spin casters.

Gene Lueders was telling us of the big bass that he saw caught down in upper Campbell's Bayou. They were gotten on live shrimp. Hitting like nobody's business, he said.

David Sibley is too busy hunting ducks to do much fishing. He is getting his share of the prized birds. David fishes, hunts and play-golf. Must be wonderful to be young.

Was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Frace at a court bullion supper Sunday night. The fish for the supper was caught by Hazel and prepared by her. Mr. and Mrs. Gene Lueders and daughter, Lisa, were also guests.

Hard crabs are giving again. Caught some nice ones the other day. Mighty fine for making gumbo. When boiling crabs it is an excellent idea to puncture the shell. It allows seasoning to penetrate the meat better.

Don Ladner has been killing his share of squirrel. Don is an old timer at this type of hunting. Says the woods are full of them if you know where to get them. He also does quite a bit of fishing.

Helene Adams does a lot of fishing off the seawall. At using a cast, she is not too bad either.

Did you know that a number of members of the Bay-Waveland Gun and Rod Club are Elk hunters? This group makes an annual hunt each year out West. Will try to get more on this later.

No excuse for not hunting now. Almost all seasons are open from rabbits to deer. Hunting is no light hearted task. It is work and pleasure combined. The deer season opened on Nov. 23. Deer hunting is something else. You should stay on a stand until ordered to move. All moving objects are a target for a high powered rifle or a load of buck shot. Be smart, not dumb. Play safe and be able to go hunting again.

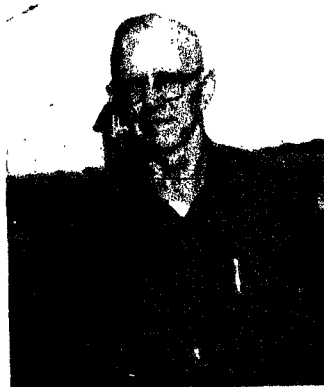

A cold front moved in again on Monday. It is natural for this time of the year. Fish usually begin to feed just before a front. Cold weather usually follows a front. When fishing for bass or even speckle trout find a little deeper water. They only hit on the surface when the weather is warm.

When talking to folks, they ask, Why don't you put me in your Kantcha-Ketchum Column. The reason is I am not a mind reader! When you have guests, go fishing or participate in any kind of sport let me know. Send the information to Doc Elliott, care of "The Echo". It will be in, that's for sure.

Understand Wop Glover has been doing some quail hunting. Wop has some real bird dogs and enjoys watching them work. Shooting quail is his second thought. Can't hunt and fish at the same time, partner.

Thanksgiving is today. Turkey is a tradition on this day. Think how much sweeter it is to be eating game that you killed yourself or fish that you caught. Happy Thanksgiving!

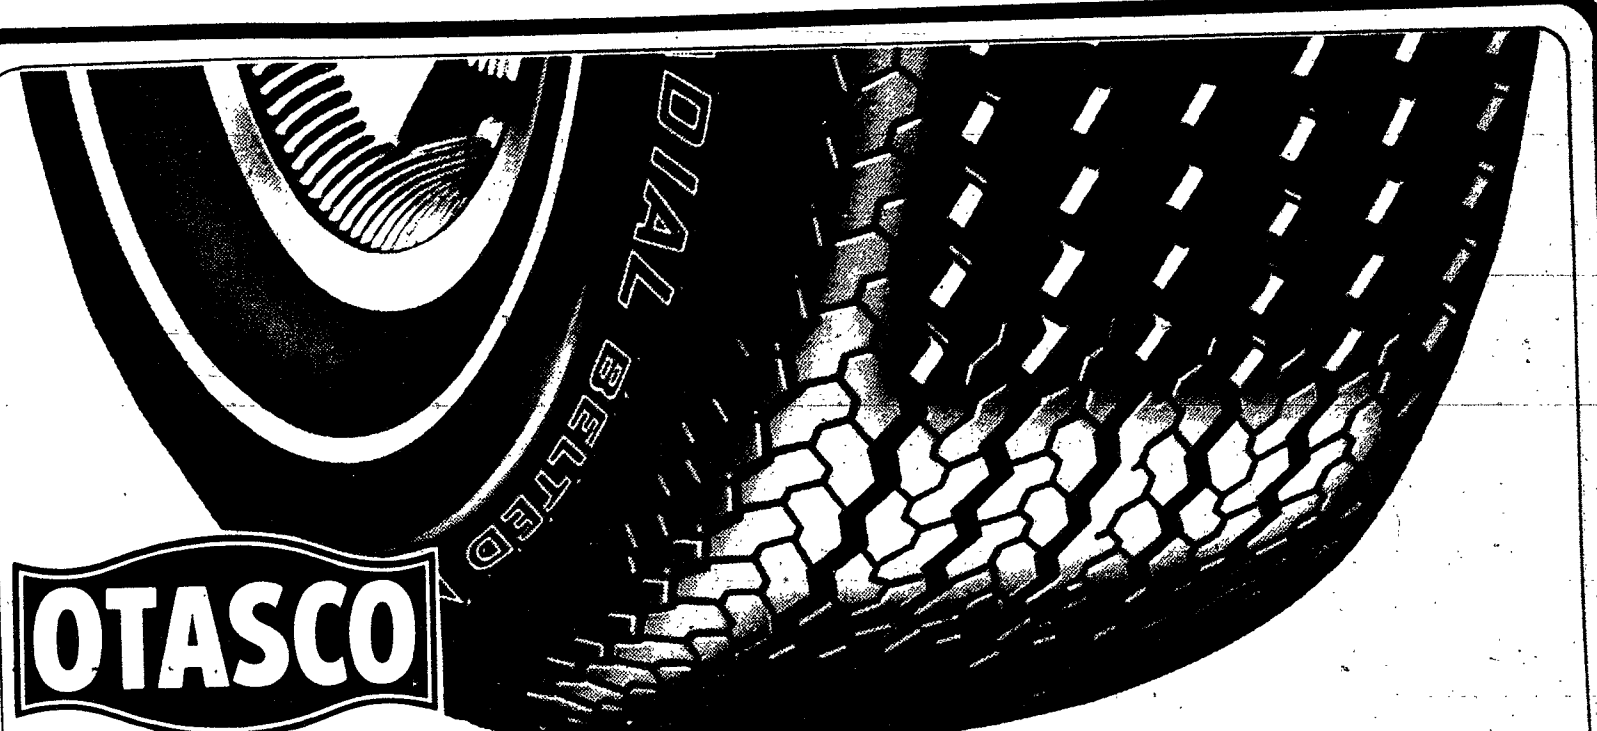

SPORTSMAN OF THE WEEK - Alphonse Dorn, Sr. does mostly salt water fishing and goes down to Ansley every chance he gets. His main sport is catching speck and red fish.

The Gulf Coast Dixieland Jazz Band will be on hand to play for the occasion, which will begin at 7 o'clock.
